TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, E. T. Eagle and Thresa Eagle, his wife, by their deed of trust, dated the 24th day of November, 1915, and recorded in the Recorder's office of Barry county, Missouri, in Book 56, at page 62, conveyed to the undersigned trustee the following described real estate, lying, being and situate in Barry county, Missouri, to-wit:

The Northeast One-fourth (1/4) of the Southwest One-fourth (1/4) and Seventeen (17) acres of the east side of the Southeast One-fourth (1/4) of the Northwest One-fourth (1/4), all in Section Number Seven (7), Township Twenty-five (25), Range Twenty-six (26), containing 57 acres, more or less. To secure the payment of one certain principal note and ten certain interest notes, in said deed of trust described and mentioned, and the interest thereon, and whereas, it is provided in said deed of trust that in case of the default in the payment of said notes when they become due, or any one of said notes, together with the interest thereon, then the undersigned trustee, at the request of the legal holder of said notes, may sell the real estate described in said deed of trust and this notice for the purpose of satisfying and discharging said indebtedness; and whereas, default has been made by said parties in the payment of one of said interest notes and the interest thereon.

Now, therefore, I, J. T. Burgess, the undersigned trustee, at the request of the legal holder of said notes, will, on Monday, the 19th day of August, 1918, at the east front door of the court house, in the city of Cassville, county of Barry and state of Missouri, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. of said day, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder, for cash, the real estate herein above described for the purpose of satisfying said notes and the interest due thereon and all expenses of executing this trust.

J. T. BURGESS, Trustee.
First insertion August 2. 48-14

JOLLY

John and Will Slankard have returned from Funston, having failed to pass, owing to physical defects.

Lloyd Hisaw went to St. Louis Friday night to enlist in the navy. He wired his folks he had been accepted.

Frank West, of Camp Funston, was home the first of the month on a short furlough. His wife accompanied him and is still here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. West.

Last Saturday was the annual cemetery cleaning day at this place. A large crowd was present and did lots of work and at noon a basket dinner was enjoyed by all.

The members of the church at this place are having the church replastered. Joe Banks, of Berwick, is doing the work.

The school board called the patrons of District No. 6 together last Friday night at the school house for the purpose of finishing our quota of W. S. S. Every man present except two bought stamps. We only lack a few of having our quota, which can be easily raised.

G. D. Montgomery and family and Henry Rose and family were dinner guests of W. W. Hisaw Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hunsucker, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Chapman and Luther West are attending the state fair at Sedalia.

The swimming hole is the favorite resort of young and old these hot days.

Mrs. Ruby Slankard and little son, of Tulsa, Ok., came Saturday night for an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoskins.

WHY SHE BECAME CHRISTIAN

Religions of Orient Make Slaves of Women, Says a Japanese, and Rebelled.

"And how did you happen to become a Christian?" I asked Mme. Hirooka, a widely known Japanese, writes Tyler Dennett in Asia.

"I wanted women to be good and I wanted to help them to improve their lot," she replied tersely. "I found that I could not accomplish what I desired without religion. That conclusion sent me to study religion from the woman's point of view. I found that there is no hope for women in any of the religions of the Orient. They teach that from the cradle to the grave women are inferior to men. They regard women as evil. Confucian ethics, for example, teach that fools and women cannot be educated. A woman cannot be a 'heavenly creature.' It teaches that it is better to see a snake than a woman, for the latter arouses passion.

"Japanese women have been so long oppressed by this kind of teaching that they no longer stop to ask why. They are afraid like slaves. Then I began to read the Bible. I did not like some parts of it any better than I like the religions of the East. I did not see why any woman should call her husband 'Lord and Master.' St. Paul made me very angry. He was an old bachelor; any one can see that. He didn't know much about women. But Peter? He was fine. He had a wife, he understood women. One can see that from his epistles.

"When I read the gospels I found that Jesus made no distinction between the sexes. I liked that. We are all women as well as men, children of God. I came to the conclusion that the only hope for the women of the Orient to attain their true position is through Christianity."

ENGLISH ONE-MAN COLLIERY

Unique Industry Is Matched by Railroad That Is Operated in the United States.

One-man businesses are many in these days of depleted staffs, but a working coal mine, controlled, supervised, and staffed entirely by a single individual is something of a novelty, says London Answers.

This one-man colliery is found at Hether Heage, Ambergate. The owner works the mine every day and all day to secure an output of 1,000 tons of coal a year. The mine is small, and the produce near the surface, while the coal is smut—used hitherto in the manufacture of blacking, but thought of greater value in war time.

The other side of the Atlantic can, however, match us in one-man industries. There, on the Idaho Southern system, is found a road run solely by one man.

The track was once a portion of an irrigation system, long since abandoned; and a high-powered motor car with flanged wheels has been built to run along the rails. It carries 16 passengers, and in the two light trailers go the freight and luggage. This quaint railroad has neither guard nor porter, yet it has a printed time table of its own, and runs its trains strictly on time.

Had First Call on Dance.

Down at Quantic one night recently there was a dance for the men of a certain company, who were to leave for France the next morning.

Of course, other marines than those about to go were on the floor. There was one man who was a mighty good dancer, and all the girls liked to dance with him.

There was a very popular girl there, too. She had her dance program full. There wasn't a dance left.

A marine came up. "May I dance with you?" he asked. The young woman said she was sorry, but her program was full.

"I am so sorry," she said.

"I am sorry, too," replied the young man. "I just came into the hall, and I did want one dance before I leave for France."

He started to turn away. The soldier who had the dance grabbed him by the shoulder.

"You take my dance," he said.

Evidently Had Wrong Girl.

Bouncer was distinctly irritated when he bumped into somebody along the street, until he found that it was an old acquaintance of his.

"Ha! Just the fellow I want to see," he remarked. "I wanted to ask you whether you ever hear anything of Borem nowadays. Did he marry that girl he was so keen on?"

"No, I don't think so. In fact, I've heard that he's rather fond of going to her house and putting the gramophone on most of the evening, and every time his back is turned to put a fresh record on, Miss Gladys moves the hands of the clock on anywhere from ten minutes to a quarter of an hour."

Sun Lifts Much Water From Lake.

Evaporation of water from Gatun lake, canal zone, reached a new high record during the month of March, this year, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Calculations show that the sun withdrew 3,248,000,000 cubic feet of water from the body, the equivalent of 1,213 cubic feet a second for the period of 31 days. This was one cubic foot a second in excess of the volume of water passing through the penstocks of the Gatun hydroelectric station, which, during the same month, produced 4,631,000 kilowatt hours of energy. This in turn shows the loss of potential current due to the sun's effect.

BUDDHISTS HOLD SPOT HOLY

Famous Pagoda, Built by Hermit, Has Long Been Visited by Throngs of Pious Pilgrims.

Sightseeing in Burma is apt to be one pagoda after another, and at that the tourist misses most of them. One that he usually does not see unless he is especially energetic, or has an insatiable taste for pagodas, is the Kyauk-hto-fo pagoda, one of the most holy spots in Burma in the eyes of the Buddhist Burmese.

The Burmese say that the builder of this pagoda was a hermit, a theory which seems probable enough, for it is built on the top of a steep hill in a location which could appeal only to one of solitary inclination. Even the crest of the hill must have been too close to the world for the holy man, for he located his shrine on a huge boulder, which may have been steady enough in his day, but which now seems ready at any time to slip off into the valley several thousand feet below.

Assured by the Burmese guide that the rock has rested at this critical angle for many centuries, the visitor, already breathless from the reckless ascent of a Burmese hill, climbs a swaying bamboo ladder to view better the old pagoda. The great rock, with its shrine forming a tiny pointed cap, seems even more unsteady from here, but the guide feels no uneasiness. He is confident that somewhere below the pagoda is a lock of Buddha's hair, and this alone stays the boulder from its fall.

In the early spring pilgrims from all over Burma journey to this forsaken spot to place flowers on the rock and offer their prayers and gifts. Jewels and other offerings are tossed with an invocation to Buddha into the chasm below the rock. As they leave, they place lighted candles outside the shrine and, as they cross the plain in the evening they can still see tiny points of flame marking the sacred spot for other pilgrims who may follow them.—Chicago News.

HAD NOT FULLY UNDERSTOOD

But Officer Realized That Henceforth Young Austrian in His Command Was an American.

The Second Indiana artillery is responsible for this story: In one of its companies there is a young Austrian, who loves America with a greater intensity than he hates the despotism "back home." He was one of the first men from his home town to enlist in that regiment.

A superior officer had come to inspect the company. He gave directions as to the way he was to be saluted, etc. "Now, we'll try you out and see if you've got all my directions," he ended. "We'll begin by calling the roll."

"As your names are called advance two steps, salute your superior officer and answer 'Here.'"

The clerk took up the list of names and began calling. And lo, the Austrian's name, like "Abon Ben Adems," led all the rest. For a few minutes the young fellow stood hesitating, because he had not understood much of what the officer had said.

Encouragingly the officer started to raise his hand. A broad smile of relief spread over the Austrian's face. A few rapid steps—he was across the room, seized his superior officer's hand and gave it a hearty American shake.

Amid roars of laughter the officer ruefully examined his crushed fingers. "He's an American now, all right," he said sagely.

Shakespeare "Overrated."

Mr. Justice Darling has admitted that he knows "a bit about racing." He certainly knows more about literature, however, and therein differs from one of his predecessors on the bench, Baron Martin. Mr. Adolphus Liddell, who acted as the baron's marshal in 1872, states that he "had a prodigious acquaintance with racing history, and knew the winners of all the chief events for many years back."

"In history, literature and art he seemed to take no interest whatever, and if ever he had any education in these he had discarded it. Many stories were current illustrative of this peculiar condition of his mind, such as his remark that 'Shakespeare is an enormously overrated man.'—London Chronicle.

Building Record.

All building records were broken recently at Grasmere, S. I., where a United States base hospital is located. In five hours a force of 300 men erected a building 230 feet long and 38 feet wide. In the finished building, when the workmen laid down their tools, was a steam-heating plant, sewer connections, electric lights and a bathroom with tiled floor. The work started at 7 o'clock in the morning, with men digging post holes. When the whistle blew at noon the last workman in the building was putting on his coat, with the task completed.

You Know It!

William Gillette, the actor, was showing George H. Broadhurst, the playwright, over his country estate. They arrived at the sheepfold, and at sight of their master the woolly inmates came bleating to the bars.

"See how the little things love me, George!" said the owner, proudly.

"Love—thunder!" said Broadhurst. "They come to you because they are hungry and they think you are going to feed them."

"George," said Gillette, "when you have reached a certain age that passes for love."—Facts.

DU BARRY'S GARTER ADDS QUAIN T TOUCH

French King Keeps It as Prize When Famous Lady Loses It at Dinner.

The story of "Du Barry," as Theda Bara has made it into a wonderful photoplay for William Fox, tells of the famous woman who had such a large part in the reign of Louis XV. The play opens with Jeannette, who is afterwards Mme. du Barry, living in comparative obscurity in Paris. She is wonderfully beautiful and clever.

One day, when he is riding about the streets of Paris, Louis XV spies Jeannette while she is walking with Jean du Barry. It is obvious that the King has been smitten by her, and Jeannette and Jean retire to their home, knowing full well that they will soon hear from His Majesty. In a few minutes a stranger arrives and asks Jeannette to dine with some gentlemen.

The dinner takes place, and the beautiful woman loses her garter, which is picked up and toasted by the man who is sitting next to her.

After the dinner Jeannette snatches the mask from her neighbor and announces that she knew all along that he was the King. The latter proclaims his love for the beautiful woman, and from that moment Jeannette is high in the favor of His Majesty.
